

CIGUATERA POISONING

Town Hall Meeting

Tuesday, September 27, 2022
5:30pm - 7:00pm

The Collaboratory
2031 Jackson Street
Fort Myers, FL 33901

The Greater Caribbean Center for Ciguatera Research (GCCCCR) is a center of excellence in the study of ciguatera poisoning. Our goal is to understand environmental impacts of toxin production, movement of toxins in the environment, and how human cells deal with toxin exposure. Over the last four years, scientists and researchers have been collecting vital data including interviewing community members, businesses and governmental stakeholders.

GOAL: To provide a platform for researchers and community members to share their relevant information and give feedback.

The town hall meeting will include a general overview of Ciguatera and most recent scientific findings of the study, a panel discussion, and also allow time for the audience to ask questions.

Meeting is free and open to the public. Email raschinbeckler@fgcu.edu to register. Registration is not required to attend.
